In this video Yázhi Swarúu, a young alien, explains what the interior of the Earth is really like and what beings inhabit it

"This information is provided by extraterrestrial persons, women and men from the Taygeta star in the Pleiades cluster, through a written contact with us."

CONVERSATION WITH YAZHI SWARUU

Beneath the earth's surface there are ancient races, some called Vulcans, from which the name "Vulcans" comes from, like Spock from Star Trek. They mean, in reality, that they are the ones who live or are the gods of intra-terrestrial volcanoes. They still live there, in the Antarctic area. The last I heard from them is that they had serious Kingu Reptilian invasion problems, mostly just like the Agartheans.

Precisely the purpose of being intra-terrestrial is to hide. So it turns out that even the Federation has very little detailed information about them. But it is known that innumerable species of animals inhabit below the ground, and some are of the humanoid type. As well as innumerable reptilian variants, generally smaller, 1m high with primitive societies. Although, I do not have this corroborated, there are multiple reports of strange semi-blind humano-morphs, cannibals in deep caverns. Nightmare material. Below the Earth it is not hollow, but there are innumerable cavities of all sizes. Some are the dimensions of an entire large country, with their light coming from photoluminescence and volcanic sources.

Cristina.- And what are the Vulcans like, also similar to the Lyrians?

Yázhí Swarúu.- Yes, they are similar or of Lyrian origin, but little is known about that society.

Cristina.- Thank you. And, humanoid type animals, like what kind?

Yázhí Swarúu.- Of the type similar to Gollum of the Lord of the Rings. All this makes one wonder how much is really known and hidden from people. Many of Hollywood's nightmares are based on reality, or some reality. Something not too far removed from this. I myself do not recommend cave exploration as a sport.

Cristina.- And, were the Vulcans and all these beings here before the first Lyrians, or did the Lyrians arrive first?

Yázhí Swarúu.- It is simply not known, but I am inclined to think that they were already on Earth when the Lyrians arrived. Also, an important comment: "Many non-Lyrian races have a humanoid appearance without being of the same branch."

Estel·la.- So, on the surface there were only the Neanderthals, Homo Erectus and Homo Habilis, right?

Yázhí Swarúu.- On the surface or in shallow caves, not intra-terrestrial.

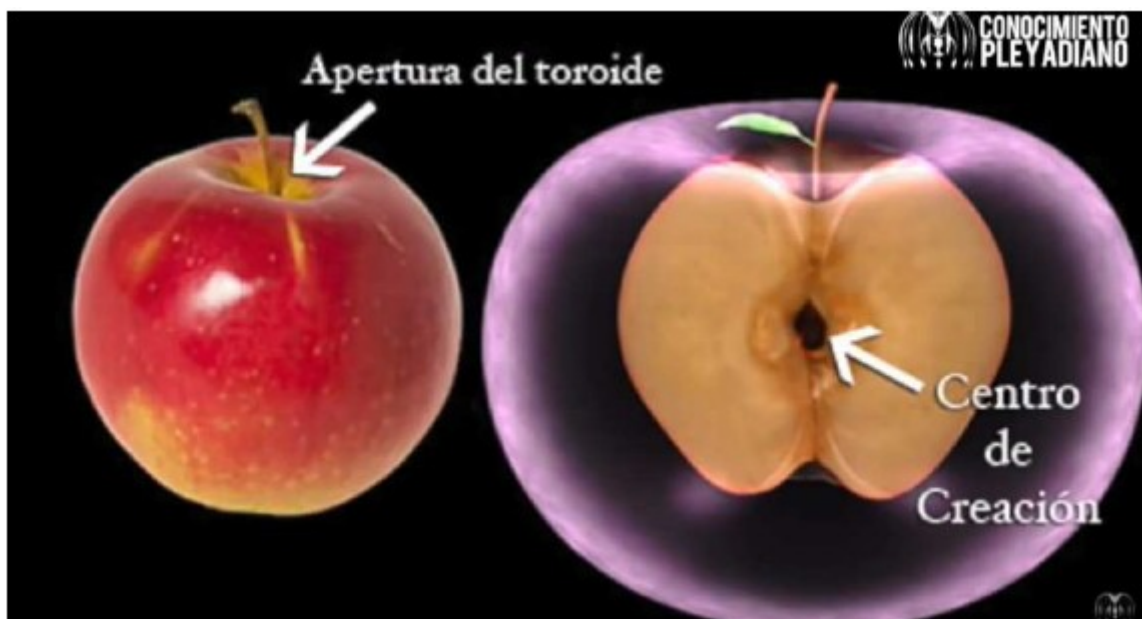

Cristina.- The cavities or holes to the internal continents before the destruction of Tiamat, were they in the same place where they are today? I mean, one in Antarctica and the other in Canada?

Yázhí Swarúu.- Mostly. But there is internal displacement with the continental plates. Although, many cavities are below the same plates. The Earth below is not like a hollow ball, it is more like Swiss cheese. For example, this map is quite simplistic and it is not. This shape is more realistic. Taking into account the size of the Earth, each cavity there is the size of Catalonia or Holland or even Argentina.

Estel·la.- And why do they speak of a central Sun? What do they mean by that?

Yázhí Swarúu.- Yes. There is much talk about a central sun that illuminates the intra-terrestrial from there. Like a sun. With my data, those of Taygeta and those of the Federation and regarding countless other planets and how they are inside I can tell you that as such there is no Sun, but rather an incandescent magmatic core that could be taken as a Sun and that provides light and heat to the various intra-terrestrial layers or vaults. The Earth being a torus as virtually everything has cavities at the poles. A small one up, Alaska. Another bigger one down, South Pole. But it does not mean that you can enter one and leave another, but that matter is formed following this pattern of energy. And, as would happen with an apple, torus too, the fastest way to get down to its cavities is through the poles.

Cristina.- And what is that incandescent magmatic core like?

Yázhí Swarú.- In the geometric center of the Earth it is an incandescent iron core in liquid form of high temperature. But it works like a complex pump where the incandescent magma rises through cavities by capillarity and produces zones or pockets of magma at various levels, flowing like rivers that circulate and recirculate among themselves. The engine that moves these magmatic rivers and lagoons is a complicated system of several dynamics that work with each other by accumulated pressure, gas expansion, magnetic flux, centrifugal and centripetal forces, and pressures that change according to the movements above the continental plates. Since the plates themselves are like floating on a liquid magma and on layers of water under such pressure that it is no longer chemically water because it is filtered through the cracks in the bottom of the oceans. Crude Oil Manufacturing Process and Planetary Black Goo. So, a planet is not only an inert rock like a small asteroid would be, but it is a complex system with internal irrigation, of both magma, water and black Goo, crude oil with a lot of movement.

You would think that below it is more hostile, but in itself, due to the same accumulated pressure, it turns out that it is very stable below and with less movement of solid plates, as happens above. And, although the type of animal and plant life is different below, with few species common to each other, both environments, surface and inside, are conducive for life to flourish. You can imagine the Earth as a great living being with its blood flow torrent and vessels, arteries and lymphatic channels all in motion.
